Tests & Measurement for People Who (Think They) Hate Tests & Measurement Dec 19 2019 Using his signature, conversational writing style and straightforward presentation, Neil J. Salkind's best-selling Tests & Measurement for People Who (Think They) Hate Tests & Measurement guides readers through an overview of categories of tests, the design of tests, the use of tests, and some of the basic social, political, and legal issues that the process of testing involves. The Third Edition includes a new chapter on item response theory, new sections on neuropsychological testing, new cartoons, and additional end-of-chapter exercises. Free online resources accompany the text to make teaching easier and provide students with the practice tools they need to master the material.

Classroom Strategies for Interactive Learning, 4th Edition Dec 31 2020 Educators across content areas have turned to Classroom Strategies for Interactive Learning for almost two decades. This fully updated fourth edition delivers rich, practical, research-based strategies that readers have found invaluable in the context of today's classrooms. Doug has written all-new chapters that focus on the instructional shifts taking place as the Common Core State Standards are implemented across the United States. These introductory chapters will help you do the following: Understand the research base for comprehension strategies in content classrooms Learn how to tap into students' background knowledge to enhance comprehension of complex texts and build new knowledge Show learners how to question a text Teach reading and thinking through a disciplinary lens At the heart of this edition are more than forty classroom strategies, with variations and strategy indexes that identify the instructional focus of each strategy, pinpoint the text frames in play as students read and learn, and correlate students' comprehension processes across the phases of strategy implementation. In addition, each strategy is cross-referenced with the Common Core's reading, writing, speaking/listening, and language standards.

Interactive Readings for Christian Worship May 24 2020 Need some revitalization of your worship service with more involvement on the part of the congregations? Or do you need more focus on the sermon subjects? This book may well be your answer. The 53 responsive readings in the book differ from the traditional approach. Here you may find the audience cast in various roles (such as in drama) where they will respond as a character in a story (such as in readers theatre). Good reading is easy to achieve (as in choral reading) and the audience gets to answer and suggest corporately (as in traditional responsive readings). The audience may play the fool, the pharisee, the publican, God, the believer, or the skeptic. At all times we worked at keeping the responses short so that the long monotony of untrained reading would be avoided, and a minimum of rehearsal instruction would be needed to have maximum expression. Both youth and adults have enjoyed these responsive readings. We think your congregation will as well!!

Let's Visit Max - a Lovely Question and Answer Story Jul 06 2021 Let's visit Max - a lovely question and answer story - participation book / interactive picture book Max is very excited about your visit. He wants to get to know you better and that is why he asks you so many questions: Which toy do you like best? What is your favourite food? And which costume do you wear when someone comes to visit you? Talk to Max and tell him something about yourself - a lovely interactive story for children ages 3 and older. Literacy: Interactive and dialogic reading The participation book "Let's visit Max" helps to improve and encourage your child's language skills using the dialogical reading method. Dialogic reading motivates children to tell stories independently, which improves their vocabulary and language skills. In comparison to normal reading, children take an active role in dialogic reading. From telling the story in their own words, to questions about the book's content, to sharing about their own experiences, there are many ways to encourage children to tell stories through dialogic reading with picture books. In the question and answer story "Let's visit Max", the protagonist wants to know more about your child. By answering the questions, your child is actively involved in the conversation. The story offers first contact to dialogic reading. The interactive picture book can also be used in the context of literacy education in the childcare center or kindergarten A child-friendly mix of simple and more challenging questions makes answering them fun for children from 3 years on. Support your child in telling and participating in the story With little help - without giving away the solution to Max's question - you can help your child to answer the question. Not all children are already familiar with interactive books or dialogic reading and therefore they need your help. Please give your child enough time to think about each question Max asks and to give the answer independently. If your child has difficulties with a question, you can always rephrase the question or help answering it. ROTE LATZHOSE: Our adventures are for everyone! Our stories with children as main characters are available in two independent book formats, one with a girl and one with a boy in the leading role! You have the choice who you want to visit: Mia (girl) oder Max (boy). Let's visit Mia - a lovely question and answer story - ISBN: 9798691129315 Let's visit Max - a lovely question and answer story - ISBN: 9798691135521 A participation book / interactive picture book created by the children's book and picture book studio ROTE LATZHOSE

Learning Environment and Design Oct 29 2020 This special edition of the Educational Communications and Technology Yearbook Series bears a title of "Learning Environment and Design: Current and Future Impact". It provides a timely forum to share theoretical and practical insights in both the local and international contexts in response to the fact that new media and technologies have infiltrated and shaped the learning environments from mere physical spaces into multifaceted possibilities, impacting the ways individuals teach and learn. Designs of learning environments to harness technologies appropriately to engage learners better, as well as the roles of learners and educators play in this changing learning environment, are examples of important global issues in the discourse of the contemporary educational developments. Having gathered a diverse collection of research papers written by scholars and practitioners in the fields of education, communication and humanities across Asia, Australasia, Europe and the United States, this book gives readers a cross-cultural background on the developments of technological designs and educational practices, investigating areas in redefining of quality education; online learning and blended learning; new media in education; gamification, AI, and innovative learning technologies. Aimed to catalyze knowledge exchanges and provide fresh views on interdisciplinary research, the book sheds light on how emerging technologies can be adapted in the fields of education and communication, so as to facilitate the current and future designs of learning environments to improve learners' performances.
