Understanding Australian Accounting Standards reflects the reporting and disclosure requirements under a number of Australian Accounting Standards, providing detailed illustration on how publicly listed companies report in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards. This textbook offers students a comprehensive and well written introduction to the scope and financial reporting disclosures of Australian accounting standards issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board. The text incorporates extracts from the 2011 annual report of Billabong International, as well as media articles profiling its recent corporate events, in all chapters to illustrate how a corporate entity measures, recognises, reports and discloses financial information required under Australian accounting standards. The integration of the Billabong International annual report will enable students to look beyond the numbers to develop interpretative and critical evaluation skills of accounting information. The integration of the Billabong 2011 annual report, with its disclosure notes, will provide students with a deep understanding of the financial reporting and business activity associated with the financial performance of a well-known company. Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject Business economics - Accounting and Taxes, grade: 2,0 (B), Helmut Schmidt University - University of the Federal Armed Forces Hamburg (Institute for Corporate Accounting), course: Controlling, 27 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: The topic of the paper is the "The development of the accounting standards of the Australian Accounting Standard Board after the end of the G4+1." I want to summarise the recent standardisation progress both international and in the view of Australia, and have a closer look on the Australian accounting environment. What was the G4+1, and why did it disband? What was the Australian reaction on the End of the G4+1. What will the future of international and Australian accounting look like? I have chosen the topic because I am currently staying at the Australian Defence Force Academy and studying at the University of New South Wales. Australia has been one of the major standard setters in the world and has had a deal of influence on international accounting standards, although it is a relatively small economy in the world. Hardly a day passes without problems of financial reporting appearing in the international press. Recent events like the scandals of Enron, Worldcom, and Xerox show the need for reasonable accounting. International accounting is an actual problem to be solved and a future chance for all kinds of businesses. After the introduction I will first present the accounting environment of Australia and its institutions. Then I will discuss the development of international accounting and the G4+1 group and its dissolution. I will have a look on the "Harmonisation Project" and what happens in Australia after the end of the G4+1. At the end I will illustrate the relation between IAS and AAS, and give a conclusion. For my work I used several recent books on Australian financial accounting that are used by institutions across Australia, various Journals on accounting Applying International Financial Reporting Standards, 2nd edition, has been thoroughly updated to reflect the varied and numerous developments in International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs). The expert knowledge and authoritative explanations of the author team have resulted in the book being extensively referenced by both the accounting profession and academics in countries that have either adopted, or intend to adopt, international accounting standards. The continuing focus of the second edition of this book is on interpreting, analysing and illustrating the financial reporting requirements under IFRSs. Each chapter contains numerous illustrative examples that present and explain concepts to ensure that users gain a deep understanding of the reporting requirements and meet the knowledge expectations of the accounting profession. The coverage of accounting standards has been expanded in the second edition with the inclusion of new chapters on IFRS 6 Exploration for and Evaluation of Mineral Resources, IAS 18 Revenue, IAS 19 Employee Benefits and IAS 41 Agriculture. This book has been written for intermediate and advanced financial accounting courses, at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. Australian Accounting Standards has been thoroughly updated in the second edition to reflect the Australian equivalents of the International Financial Reporting Standards. Since the early adoption of IFRS in 2005, Australia has kept pace with international standard setters to ensure that Australian accounting standards align and harmonise with IFRS. The continuing focus of the second edition is on the interpretation, analysis, illustration and application of the scope and purpose of various Australian accounting standards. Each chapter contains numerous illustrative examples to ensure that the student gains a deep understanding of all the reporting requirements under the respective accounting standard to meet the expectations of the profession. The coverage of accounting standards has been expanded in the new edition with the inclusion of new chapters on AASB 6 Exploration for and Evaluation of Mineral Resources, AASB 118 Revenue, AASB 119 Employee benefits and AASB 141 Agriculture. This textbook has been written for intermediate and advance courses on financial accounting at both undergraduate and postgraduate level. This is the official web site of The Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB) which is responsible for setting accounting standards for both the private and public sectors in Australia. This study provides a neutral and comprehensive explanation about the activities which precede the formulation of accounting regulatory policies. The knowledge gained from it can be applied to understand the formulation of regulatory policies in other areas and to predict or explain the behaviour of interest groups in the preparation of accounting standards and regulations. The 2011 CPA ACCOUNTING HANDBOOK is first to market and contains the Australian Accounting Standards (equivalent to IFRS) for 30 June 2011 financial year ends, including the Conceptual Framework, Accounting Standards and Interpretations updated to 15th November 2010. It also includes the revised AASB 124 Related Parties applicable from 1 January 2011, AASB 1053 Application of Tiers of Australian Accounting Standards (and AASB 2010-2 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from Reduced Disclosure Requirements) that introduces differential reporting to Australian entities--applicable from 1 July 2013 but can be early adopted--and AASB 9 Financial Instruments (and AASB 2009-11 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from AASB 9) applicable from 1 January 2013. There are a number of Amending Standards issued which will apply to future financial year ends and the Technical Notes will assist in identifying which Standards and Interpretations will be impacted, the relevant Amending Standard and when it applies. The format of this handbook is designed to be both clear and easy to read. The Companion Website for this title, www.pearson.com.au/highered/handbooks will include those Amending Standards not included in the handbook and compilations applicable to future accounting periods. Also, it will be updated throughout 2011 with any changes to the accounting standards and is accompanied by Technical Editor Notes. The 2011 Companion Website includes student self test quizzes for ten key AASB standards not offered anywhere else. Funded by taxation, public spending cannot be separated from politics and ensuring efficiency and effectiveness is always high on the political and policy agenda. Accounting, accountability, governance and auditing are essential ingredients in evaluating public sector performance. Australia and New Zealand are world leaders when it comes to public sector accounting—such as being the first to introduce transaction-neutral accounting standards. This edited collection considers current issues impacting the public sector by primarily drawing upon experiences of Australia and New Zealand. Then, by combining history (from the time of the Domesday book, early sovereignty and Shakespeare) with current practice (differential reporting, international financial reporting standards, government performance, voter turnout, joined-up government and auditing practices), we use these experiences to illuminate the global issues of public sector accounting, accountability and governance. Based on rigorous research by top public sector researchers, this edited collection offers a multitude of future research ideas to enable those interested in following this pathway—whether they are in Australia, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, Europe, the United States of America, Africa or anywhere else in the world—an avenue to traverse. Issues in Financial Accounting addresses the controversial issues in financial accounting that have been debated by the preparers, users, auditors and regulators of financial statements. Henderson provides the best balance of technical and theoretical coverage in any Financial Accounting text on the market today, with its presentation of real-world examples, current debates and the underlying rationale for the accounting concepts demonstrated. Throughout the text, academic studies and professional accounting research are referenced to also provide a critical understanding of historical debates in financial accounting. The new 15th edition covers significant recent developments to the accounting standards in Australia and is based on the AASB standards and interpretations that have been issued up to the end of 2012. This includes the Australian Accounting Standard Board's (AASB) program of changes to make accounting standards equivalent to International Financial Reporting Standards. [Truncated abstract] How and what Australian Not For Profit (NFP) entities should disclose to stakeholders about their activities, including their use of resources and their success in meeting organisational objectives, has been the subject of discussion in recent times through government inquiries, public commentary and reports by professional accounting bodies. External financial reports, which include the disclosure of financial information and results of the performance of management, are a source of information about NFP entities. In Australia, guidance on the preparation of external financial reports is provided by the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB), which is responsible for developing, issuing and maintaining accounting standards on a 'transaction neutral' basis. The guidance given is on the treatment of particular types of transactions as opposed to standards specific to a particular sector, for example, the private, public or NFP sector. This policy has been in effect since 2000 and was maintained in 2002 when the AASB announced that from 1 January 2005 all Australian reporting entities, irrespective of size, industry or sector, would be required to adopt the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB). The objective of external financial reports under the IFRS as issued by the AASB is to provide a specific set of information to users to assist them in making economic decisions and to assess the accountability of management in protecting the entity's assets. The IFRS were developed specifically for the For Profit (FP) private sector. The ability of standards developed for a particular sector to meet the needs of users from another sector has been questioned by commentators and researchers. The purpose of this thesis is to investigate the extent to which the guidance issued by the AASB meets the needs of users of external financial reports of NFP entities. There are five main findings documented in the thesis. The first finding is that while the criterion included in the current definition of a NFP entity contained in the AASB guidance provides useful and essential information to preparers of external financial reports, there are other criteria that preparers consider to be just as useful and essential. The study also finds differences in the set of criteria perceived to be useful and essential in defining Australian private versus public sector NFP entities. The second main finding is that the three groups surveyedpreparers, donors and members of NFP entities-consider the users identified in the AASB guidance to be users of external financial reports, with some exceptions. However, the guidance proposed in the IASB conceptual framework project excludes the vast majority of users identified in this research. The third main finding concerns the purposes for which donors and members require the information contained in external financial reports...
