J.M. Smith Letters Feb 22 2023 Eight handwritten letters (circa 63 p.) from an Indian agent to the governor of New Mexico concerning the various issues and concerns the Apache Indians are bringing to him for his attention and their interactions with government and civil officials. Smith writes of their impoverished state and desperate need for food, clothing, and shelter and pleads with the Governor for more funds to help them. In one letter he quotes a previous reply from the governor, "You say 'all that I can do is to give general instructions which is to keep within the narrowest possible limits having a due regard to your means on hand for you can expect no additional means from me until some are placed at my disposal.'" Smith then goes on to give an account of his dwindling funds and that he will be destitute soon adding, "In this state of the case, I deem it important to write you and to represent that they [the Apache] are now friendly, but being on the point of starvation, that there is a great danger of hostilities...I plead for the Apache. He is a noble, fine looking, though naked Indian. Save him, I beseech you, from starvation, and its alternative, stealing.

Generous individuals have offered me the means to feed and clothe him, at their own risk, if I would use the money as public funds, but, under your instructions I dare not. "

You Want to Be 'left Behind' Nov 26 2020 "When Jesus comes to rapture the Church, you don't want to be left behind, do you " The idea of believers disappearing from the earth in "the twinkling of an eye" in order to escape the "Great Tribulation" is one that has captivated the imaginations of many Christians over the past 150 years now. Multimillion dollar book, TV, video game and movie franchises have been constructed around this very concept. But is it what the Bible actually teaches? In this "Dojo Discussions" edition, JM Smith looks at various issues surrounding popular End Times teachings which many Christians take for granted to be solid, orthodox, Biblical teaching...with surprising results. Could it be that when it comes to the return of Jesus, you actually WANT to be 'left behind'
